

Telemundo's worldwide success, the series that broke all records when it first aired in 2011, resumes with the return of Teresa Mendoza (Kate del Castillo), who after becoming one of the largest drug traffickers in Spain, flees, and is now forced to return to this dangerous world in order to save her daughter's life. Teresa goes back to Mexico after eight years to meet with her daughter's kidnapper and confront her enemies and the past she fought so hard to leave behind. This story was so powerful it inspired a successful English language adaptation on Telemundo's sister network, USA.
